How to change your phone writing.

From installing new icon packs to changing accent color and trying out new launchers, Android users aren't new to customizing their phones to their best taste. Nonetheless, your customization might be incomplete without switching up your system font; that's when you notice the refreshing look all over the place. Thankfully, that's easy to do on most Android phones. But if you don't know-how, we'll talk about how to change font on Android in this guide. While it's not part of Android's dream to let you play around with the system fonts on your phone, many OEMs take it into their hands to enable font customization on their custom Android skins. So, if you've got a device from Infinix, TECNO, Samsung, Oneplus, Xiaomi, Oppo, and other brands, you can easily change the system font using the built-in function. How to change your font style on Android Right here, we'll go through various methods regarding how to change font on Android phones. If one doesn't work on your device, try the next! Change font on Android with built-in options. By far the easiest and most effective way to try a different font style on your phone is using the built-in feature. Like we said earlier, that's possible on many Android skins. You'll find an option to choose the font you want either in the display setting or via a dedicated theme app. On most TECNO and Infinix devices, you can use the Theme app to change the font style, as analyzed below. Open your app drawer and find the Theme app, then launch it. Tap the Discovery tab below the screen. Tap Font. Select the font you want from the list, then download and install it. That's how to change font on Android if you've got a TECNO or Infinix device. That is also how it works on Xiaomi, Vivo, and Oppo devices. Just open the Themes app and locate the Font option there. On many devices from Samsung, Oneplus, LG, and others, you can change your font style from the Settings app. Usually, you'll find the option under the Display, Fonts, or other dedicated customization section. Better still, you can search for "fonts" in the settings app to see what's available on your device. Change fonts on your phone with a launcher app. Even if your phone is running a custom Android skin from any OEM, that doesn't guarantee you could change the system font natively. If the font options on your device don't include changing of style, you can achieve that using a custom launcher app. You can easily pull that through Smart Launcher, Apex Launcher, Action Launcher, and most launcher apps on the Play Store. However, changing fonts with a launcher differs from doing it on a system level. It'll only change the text styles of the launcher and not the entire phone. If you're cool with that, here's how to change font on Android using Smart launcher: Download and install the Smart launcher from the Play Store and set it as your default launcher. Long-press on the home screen, then select Global appearance Tap Font Select the one you want to change, either Title or Body font. Select a font of your choice to apply it. Once again, the selected fonts would appear within the launcher, not the entire system or any app you've installed. Change font on your device with a font app. One last way to change the system font on your device is by using an app. But sadly, this method only works on rooted Android devices, as it'll need to replace the system font files with new ones. If you own a rooted Android phone, then you shouldn't have a problem with changing fonts if your phone doesn't support it natively. For this, you can try an app like iFont or FontFix on the Play Store. They're free and works on rooted devices from most brands. And once they gain root access, you can download fonts of your choice and apply them as much as you want. How to change the text size on Android The pleasure of being able to customize the font of your device is immense, and it's great to see several brands who made it possible on their Android phones without needing major tweaks here and there. However, if your phone doesn't give such a chance, you can still customize how texts look across the UI. That's by adjusting your text size. You can make them look smaller or bigger, depending on your choice. Here's how: Open the Settings app Click on Display tap Font size (or Font size and style depending on how you see it on your device.) You'll see a slider at the bottom of the screen showing your current text size. Drag the slider to either Small, Medium, or Large to see what works best for you. While that isn't as intuitive as changing the font style, it makes a significant change. Final thoughts Learning how to change font on Android is lenient if your Android phone supports it natively. And while many brands have included it in their design language over the years, some count it as an unnecessary thing. That said, the good news is that no matter the type of Android device you use, you can still change the system font to what pleases you. Perhaps the best way is to look for built-in support on your phone. And if that didn't work, you can settle for the other options—rooting your phone or customizing fonts via a launcher app. Other related topics: How to Change Font Style on TECNO How to Make a Video your Wallpaper Wondering how to change writing style in phone? Well, one of the best things about Android OS is that it allows customizing device interface. Thus, Android smartphone users can customize the appearance of their device as per requirement. You can choose from a variety of options to change the font style as well as the size on your phone. How to Change Writing Style in Phone? There are several ways to change the font style and size. Given below are some of the methods: I. Using the Built-In Settings- Not all smartphones will be equipped with this feature. For the phones that have the option, the changes can be done from the settings. The exact pathway differs based on the Android OS, brand, and model of the device but in general, go to Settings>Display and then look for options mentioning font style or type. Confirm the style and size you want to apply the changes. Some brands also have a dedicated app from where you can download different types of paid and free fonts.
